Plans for Development Of 334 Township Acres Presented to Residents

The Planning Board and neighbors in the northwest corner of the Township got their first official look last week at a development proposal for what may be the last large undeveloped tract in Princeton.

Plans for three different ways of developing 334 acres on either side of Drakes Corner Road were presented informally for concept review at the Planning Board's regular meeting last Wednesday night. The property is bounded by Charry Valley Road on the north, Province Line Road to the west and the DeMenil tract and Woodfield Reservation to the south. A gift to Princeton University by the late Dean Mathey and the subject of litigation after the area was down-zoned in keeping with 1980 Master Plan recommendations, it was purchased last year by a Houston, Texas, partnership for $3.3 million.

Water Company to Close Princeton's Artesian Well

The days are numbered for Princeton residents who have been drawing their drinking water from the well at the Elizabethtown Water Company installation off West Drive.

The Water Company intends to close its water treatment plant here by the end of 1986. After that time, according to Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser, the company will maintain only a small storage facility for small equipment that might be needed to maintain water lines in the area. Because it will be withdrawing personnel as well, the company has informed Township Committee it will no longer operate the pump that draws the water continually from underground well. Nor does it wish to perform the required water quality tests, assume responsibility for

Borough Supports Downtown Garage; Some Citizen Opposition Is Anticipated

Radically different points of view about the Borough garage proposed for the metered lot at Tulane and Spring Streets were expected to be heard at the Borough Council meeting scheduled for this past Tuesday night.

Mercer County Improvement Agency (MCIA) Director Arthur Julian was expected to lead off the debate by presenting the results of the garage feasibility study done by the MCIA at the request of Mayor and Council.

Mayor Barbara Sigmund has stressed that the Council supports the idea of a downtown parking garage, although there has not been a public discussion of the issue. At question at this meeting, according to the mayor, will be whether to finance the garage through the MCIA or directly through the Borough's bonding authority.

However, citizen opposition is expected. Ann McGoldrick, that neighborhood is clearly 25 Vandeventer Street, planned to explain her objections to the garage. "There will be other people there too," she said, referring to opponents of the garage who live in the Vandeventer-Madison-Park Place area.

It is also expected that some representatives of the business community, which is generally in favor of a downtown garage, will be present. A study done last year by the Parking Committee of the Borough Economic Development Commission is said to support construction of a downtown garage. The study has never been made public.

The garage favored by Mayor and Council - one of three outlined in the MCIA report - would cost about three million dollars and contain 306 spaces. It would include 7,500 square feet of streat-level retail space to rent at $20 a square foot.

The building itself would rise five levels and be a prefab concrete slab garage similar to those at Palmer Square and Princeton Hospital.

The facility would be used only for all-day employee parking. The mayor said the cooperation of the business community would be necessary through its making the use of the garage a condition of employment. Estimated monthly cost to five-day-aweek parkers would be about $49. This, according to the mayor, compares with the $70 for five-day-a-week parking charged by Collins. There would be no attendant on duty in the Borough garage.

Interviewed a few hours before the Council meeting, Mrs. McGoldrick said that one of the things that makes Princeton a special place are its downtown residents. "Right around us is a wonderful little neighborhood, and threatened by the amount of traffic with us all the time.

"Once there is a garage in the Tulane/Spring area, where streets are narrow, and especially one for all-day parkers, 250 to 300 cars disgorging at the same time will have a severe impact on a neighborhood that already has a traffic problem, she

She added that the Borough has had a stated commitment to downtown residents, and that the Palmer Square redevelopment would not have been approved without its strong residential com-

She said, too, that there was a bigger issue than her neighborhood, "and that is the kind of community we will have. Will we become 33rd Street in part of Route 1 City?," she asked. "And the irony is that the Borough is suing its neighbors while unbelievable development is going on downtown."

Five Percent Increase In School Tax Possible

The operating expense portion of the 1986-87 Princeton Regional School Budget - by far the largest chunk - is expected to be $15,426,337. Of this, $13,400,000 must be raised through municipal taxes. The balance comes largely from the state and federal government.

The municipal contributions translate to an anticipated five percent increase in the school tax — from $1.10 per hundred dollars of assessed valuation last year in the Borough, to $1.16. And from the $1.16 in the Township to $1.22.

These figures preliminary. It is the feeling of the board secretary that they will not go up and may well come down.

School Budget

The budget meets the 6.3 percent state cap; there will be no request for a cap increase.

The School Board approved the proliminary budget last week. It now goes to the state for review and is then returned to the board for final reworking and approval.

The additional monies will be used largely to fund on increase in staff salaries. This has been figured at five percent in the budget. However, the actual increase will be decided through contract negotiations, which are currently underway.

The result was a Planning Board resolution which called for a steel bridge with "individual articulated arches"; a clearance of 10 feet from the surface of the water to the top of the arches; and "lighter and lower parapet walls reducing the mass of the walls and thus permitting the design of decorative railings" on top.

Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser also drafted a resolution endorsing Scheme 3 proposed by the DOT but with certain design features, such as individual structural arches for each span. Garnet: Birthstone for January the Latin

From granatus," meaning "having many seeds" because garnet crystals in a rock reminded early scientists of the shape and color of pomegranate 'granatum'') seeds.

Garnets were known thousands of years before the Christian era and are mentioned in early Biblical writings. It was the gemstone of faith, consistency and truth and was also believed to have curative powers. It was not uncommon to grind garnets into a powder for poultices to relieve fever. If the powder failed to be effective, the apothecary was blamed for having used a substitute.

Asiatics used garnets as bullets, believing their color would inflict a more deadly wound. And speaking of color, even most jewelers are unaware that the birthstone for January occurs in virtually every color of the spectrum except blue ... and it is perfectly correct for the January born to wear red, pink, orange, violet, yellow or green garnets.

What jewelers do realize, however, is that certain garnets, notably those called Pyrope, can look very much like dark rubies and it is not uncommon to see a pyrope garnet mounted in a ring and surrounded by a multitude of diamonds and proudly proclaimed a "ruby" by the unsuspecting owner. Testing equipment can readily distinguish one from the other.

The garnet is not a single gemstone. Rather, there are a number of separate species that make up the dradite.

garnet group. The most commonly encountered is the Almandite, characterized by its dark, slightly brownish-red to purplishred color. The Pyrope is usually more transparent and has a purer red. The lat-ter have long been described and sold by much misleading names as "Colorado ruby," "Cape ruby,"

The Rhodolite is distinctive in its violet- or purplishred color. To those who enjoy this hue, the Rhodolite is a lovely stone that closely resembles some fine corundum, i.e., violetish rubies or the so-called plum sap-

The Grossularite garnet occurs in the widest range of colors, from a rich, brownish yellow resembling fine topaz to a translucent green resembling jade.

The most important variety of Andradit is an exceedingly brilliant, yellowish-green stone with strong fire called a demantoid garnet. Melanite is a rare, black variety belonging to this garnet group.

The Spessartite ranges from yellow-orange to orangy-red, orangy-brown to reddish-brown Gem quality orange is quite rare.

Garnets range in hardness from 612 to 712. Their toughness is fair to good and they make excellent gemstones for almost any type of jewelry. Prices may begin at $24 per carat in most varieties depending upon individual beauty, color and clarity to $500 per carat for the green An-

Down-zoning Discussed. In its work session, Committee heard Mr. Kimball describe the reasoning and planning that has gone into a proposed amendment to reduce the permitted floor-area ratio (FAR) in the office-research OR 3 zone between Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road. The proposed amendment will be introduced at the next regular meeting of Township Committee on Thursday, January 28, at 8 p.m.

In addition to a reduction in permitted FAR from a maximum of 22 percent to an average of 12 percent, which Mr. Kimball called "a substantial reduction in development intensity," the proposed amendment would split the 26-acre zone in two subzones, sented OR 3A and OR 3B. dissented, it would have automatically gone to the high , court.

The suit, first filed in March Carnevale also confirmed that of last year, requested the court to void the land use laws of West Windsor, South Brunswick, and Plainsboro, and to prohibit these towns, plus Lawrence, from issuing any building permits for non-residential development until development plans are coor-dinated with each other and with those of neighboring towns and until Route 1's capacity is enlarged to accommodate the region's actual and projected growth.

Concurrently, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation in Plainsboro is moving forward with an appeal of its suit to halt construction on Princeton For- restal Village pending resolution of traffic concerns at Route 1 and College Road. The charitable foundation, located directly across Route 1 from the Forrestal Village site, will charge that the Plainsboro Planning Board should not have approved the development without requiring an overpass or underpass at College Road and Route 1 East.

The Foundation's suit against the Plainsboro Township Committee, Planning Board, Princeton University, Toombs Development Co., and the Middlesex County Planning Board was rejected in June. The judge ruled that groundlevel road improvements will adequately handle the traffic generated by the first phase of the two-phase contract.

Women To Be Admitted Decides Cottage Club

The University Cottage Club, one of three all-male eating clubs at Princeton University, has voted to admit women. This leaves Ivy Club and Tiger Inn as the only remaining maleonly clubs.

The policy barring women has been the subject of a legal challenge by 1980 Princeton , graduate Sally Frank who, when informed of the club's decision, said, "I'm really glad they're finally moving into the 20th century.

A press release signed by James L. Crawford, chairman of the Graduate Board of Cottage Club, and Huge DeWynne of Battle Road stated that the decision came out of a polling of Cottage Club's entire graduate membership and lengthy consultations among Cottage Club's Governors and undergraduate members.

Women for the first time will be permitted to participate in the club's annual selection process, known as "bicker, scheduled for next month. The release notes the club's desire to hold a "congenial bicker."

The decision of Cottage, where F. Scott Fitzgerald was a member while a Princeton student, comes after two legal rulings against the clubs.

In December, a state administrative law judge confirmed an earlier Division of Civil Rights ruling that the clubs are public and thus subject to state anti-discrimination laws. A further hearing on the case is scheduled for February

Two Drivers Are Hurt Both Cars Are 'Totalled'

The drivers of two small cars were hurt and both their cars were totalled, following an accident last week at the intersection of Route 27 and Riverside Drive.

One of the drivers, Keith B. Martin, 22, 660 Lake Drive, stopped on Riverside behind a UPS delivery truck, was issued a summons by Ptl. John Clausen for a red light violation. He told police that be had followed the truck across the intersection where he was struck on the right side by a car traveling on Route 27 operated by Colleen A. Pazos, 23, of East Brunswick.

Mr. Martin contended that he could not see if the light had changed because his vision had been blocked by the truck. However, a witness, Diane Ellis of Hightstown, stopped on Snowden Lane for the traffic light, told Ptl. Clausen that she saw the Martin car cross the intersection against the red light.

Both drivers were treated at Princeton Medical Center and released, Mr. Martin for hip injuries, Miss Pazos for bruises and contusions of the leg.

establish a Princeton priority. This is also true of Princeton Community Housing, with a similar policy.

Other criteria for tenant selection include the length of the waiting period, as well as the need in terms of quality of housing, excessive rent or over-crowded conditions.

I have no hesitation in stating that to the best of my knowledge, there is no family living in the Housing Authority housing which had not established proper residence or work priority in Princeton, prior to being offered housing.

Hearthreaking Decision, It is quite often a most heartbreaking decision that the commissioners of the Housing Authority are required to make in selecting a tenant, and their job is not made easier by casual unsubstantiated comments, reflecting on the integrity of their selections, especially from a source which is in a position to allay fears rather than perpetuate a myth.

The task has been helped in recent months, in the selection of elderly tenants for housing, thanks to the opening of Elm Court, which is providing com-fortable, affordable housing to a number of elderly Princeton residents. However, the families of law income in this town are finding the door closed more and more often, as they seek decent housing for themselves and their children.

That is why we wrote to the mayors and members of the governing bodies of Princeton Borough and Township recently, urging that they do everything in their power to include low income rental housing in their deliberations regarding affordable bousing.

From Generalized Bias

To the Editor of Town Topics: Your January 8 lead article quotes a realtor, elected to Township Committee, who may join the Planning Board: "Mrs. Firestone says the potential for conflict [of interest on the Board] exists already for lawyers, bankers, architects, suggest that, in order to bring plaints promptly, when we are and people with connections to area businesses and the University and adds that her and to understand some of the appointment would be no different." The Board has suffered from generalized bias, not legal corruption. There has long been a "Pretty Brook" development. This development is neither on, nor off of Pretty Brook Road.

We should be very grateful for the dedicated men and of the facts; but "we" have to do our part as well. We have to inform ourselves, and care in more than a selfish way. "We" have to care about closed and/or open septic systems leaching toxic wastes into nur Look Beyond Self-Interest water; antiquated sewer systems spilling raw sewage onto our streets. We have to care about increased noise, traffic, congestion, pollution that invade our lives and our health. We have to care, and we have to act. A great deal more than our own back yards is being destroyed, never to be reclaimed.

The services of Princeton Township are now being strained beyond their ability to keep up with the growth; yet more and more is coming. More houses, more cars, more noise, ed, swept, maintained; pavement where pavement never was, and perhaps was never meant to be, causing run-off and flooding and erosion. Wildlife displaced, brooks and streams polluted; peace bom-barded by "progress." More equipment wearing down our roads, and wearing us down as I can appreciate residents being concerned with their immediate neighborhoods, but no longer should each new proposed development be treated as an isolated situation. Realistic bonds should be posted by contractors to repair roads beyond the immediate vicinity of a given development; and more land rearranged

We all should be aware of proposed changes beyond our own back yards.

It's no longer "my" house, and "my" land, and "my" road

The furniture, including dressers, armuires, changing tahles and desks, is made of mica (similar to Formica) and is attractive with simple straight lines. The modularbuilt products offer a variety of styles and looks. Two of the most popular peices are the changing table ($480) and the armoire ($650), says Mrs. Feldman.

The Feldmans, both New Jersey natives, are enthusiastic about their new venture and pleased with the response so far. "People are beginning to know us." notes Mr. Feldman, "Princeton is definitely a growth area, and there was nothing like a Bellini store here. People come in now and say 'I'm so glad you're here There's nothing like this ' Also, the shopping center is a good location, offering convenient shopping and parking, and it has a nice new look, too.

School officials were made aware of the failure rate only last week, when the state announced its cutoff scores. These are 61 in mathematics, 75 in reading, and 77 in writing.

Public high school students in New Jersey will not be allowed to graduate until they have achieved these scores. If they fail the HSPT in their freshman year, when it is first given, they may take it again each year.

What the ten percent failure rate means, said the superintendent, is that those who failed no longer bave the same options as other students in course selection. LET'S TALK ABOUT

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

We, at WOODWINDS, really don't want you to "Kill a Tree" but obviously, many tree killings are unwitting accidents. Let's examine how and why this happens. One way begins at the nursery, where healthy, strong stemmed, well rooted trees with take me home appeal are offered. Some of them may be genetically unable to endure the climate where the purchaser intends to put them. Always make sure to check the zone where the species is most happy

Even if the tree does not have a climatic strike against it, there are still several ways you could kill a tree with adverse conditions. For instance, pine trees will not live long planted in the stade of Maples II you have overhead wires around, the utility man on his cherry picker will likely hack away part of it in a manner that mars its beauty and may bring on decay. Prospects are never bright for trees planted in narrow strips along sidewalks and curbs. If delivery trucks don't get them, restricted root zone will.

You can also kill a tree by planting it with its crown (where the trunk meets the root) a cozy five inches down into the soil. Many think such planting adds to the trees comfort and stability, while, in fact, it has less chance to survive. Another form is to dig the hole deeper than necessary and incorporate a huge amount of peat moss or humus as backfill. This way the tree can be planted at proper depth, but, in time the soil will settle the tree into a depression. In winter, water can collect in the basin, freeze and crust the cambium layer at the base of the tree. The true cause of such mysterious deaths may never be detected.

Don't forget to check with WOODWINDS (924-3500) about our Annual Maintenance Program for your property

The only woman among the founders of the American Society of Landscape Architects, established in 1899, Farrand was a successful professional whose career spanned the years 1891-1949.

Designer of many private gardens, including those of J. Rockefeller, she was also a principal landscape architect for a number of college campuses. In addition to Princeton, these include Harvard, Yale, the University of Chicago, Vassar, Oberlin, California Institute of Technology, and Occidental College in Los Angeles.

Farrand was associated with Princeton from 1912, when she was first hired to landscape the Graduate College, until 1943. She landscaped most of the western campus north of Spelman Halls and sections around the Chapel and Eno and Guyot, Today, about 50 percent of her Princeton landscaping is still visible, but it covers a sizable portion of the campus.

Her philosophy was to use plantings to accentuate and complement architectural features rather than to conceal or distract from them. Hallmarks of her campus landscapes include extensive use of native species; trees in open spaces and vines and climbers against walls, rather than massed shrubs or hedges; walks and paths both dramatic and functional; and a mix of deciduous and evergreen varieties calculated to keep the campus looking good throughout the academic year.

The exhibit comes to Princeton from Harvard University, where it was on display during December.

Just when everybody was wondering what had gone wrong with the Princeton men's hockey team this season, the Tigers went out last weekend and played superlative back-to-back games. One of the most amazing college football teams of all time was Army in 1944 ... No majorcollege team in history ever dominated their opponents the way Army did that year -- beating such teams as Notre Dame 59-0, North Carolina 46-0 and Pitt 69-7 ... In all, Army averaged 56 points per game that season while holding their opponents to an average of just 4 points per game ... That means that, on the average, their margin of victory was 52 points per game -- a record that's never been topped.

Here's a basketball fact ... When the great Pete Maravich played college basketball at LSU, he amazingly scored almost half the points made by his entire team one season ... For the 1968-69 season, the entire LSU team scored just over 2300 total points, while Maravich himself got over 1100!

I bet you didn't know . that many health insurance plans including Blue Cross - Blue Shield do not cover children after they reach 19 years

Oddly enough, a team once won the national championship in majorcollege football even though they didn't even win their own conference championship! -- Minnesota was voted national champ in 1936 but they finished second in the Big 10 Conference that year to Northwestern ... Strange, but Cornell, in sixth, is not out of reach, but Princeton would need to beat the Big Red in Ithaca, plus pull off a couple of other upsets, to have any hope of overtaking it.

Three Solid Periods of Play. For perhaps the first time this season, the Tigers played three full periods without a letup. And when they had reason to falter early in the second period, they didn't.

The first period was scoreless until less than three minutes remained. At that point passes by Rocco and Cliff Abrecht set up Oshier with the game's first goal at 17:06. The lead did not last long. Messuri took a foolish penalty with 17

But give this Tiger team credit for turning around what had been a slow and painful start to its season.

A 51-50 squeaker over Dartmouth Friday night and a 77-44 pasting of Harvard the following evening have given Princeton its best start in the league race in three years. It has also given this improving quintet, a loser of five of its first seven contests, a modest four-game win streak. Princeton has not lost since the opening round of the Fiesta Bowl Classic, and has pushed its overall record over the .500 mark, 7-6, for the first time since the opening Harvard came into Jadwin Saturday night minus players like Joe Carrabino and Bob Ferry, who graduated last June, with a 3-9 mark. It made a game out of it for only part of the first half, and left 3-10.

The Tigers, who led by just 17-15 midway through the first period, blew the game open with a 20-point surge while the Crimson could manage just four. It was 44-25 at the intermission, and all over.

The second half Carril cleared his bench, giving some playing time to everyone. Five players scored in double figures - Williams leading with 16, followed by Scott, 12; Orlandini, 11, and Harnum and Thompson, 10 apiece. The 77 points were the most scored by the team this season.

another season high, five more than Harvard

Obviously pleased with his IVY LEAGUE BASKETBALL team's progress, Carril commented after the game, "I've gotta go on the road recruiting, and it's a lot better going out when you're winning.

Darmouth Record Intact. On Friday night, Dartmouth came as close as it ever has to breaking its 28-year drought at Princeton. The Big Green hasn't won here since Cappy Cappon was coach in the 1957-58 season.

That may change in the next year or two. The visitors, under second year coach Paul Cormier, have a young squad that should improve with experience.

They came very close to pulling this one out as it was, battling back in the second half after being down by seven at one point. Matching Princeton basket for basket down the stretch, the Big Green failed to do so with 24 seconds left when Eugene Sims could sink only one of two foul shots, leaving the Tigers ahead 47-46.

Bryan Randall grabbed the rebound, but lost the ball to John Thompson's quick hands, and fouled trying to get it back. Thompson sank two for a 49-46 lead, and after Dartmouth again climbed to within one. Bob Scrabis sank two more to put the contest out of reach, 51-48. A last-second basket by the visitors was meaningless.

Carril had reason to be happy with the play of at least one of his freshmen. Scrabis had all of his points in the second half, including four out of four under pressure from the foul line.

Williams followed his 27-point performance against Lafayette with 19 more, but he didn't get things going until the second half. He was no better than two for nine in the first 20 minutes, as Dartmouth squeezed 24-21 lead at the intermission.

But he was all business in the second, scoring 10 points in the first four minutes, as the Tigers went on a 12-2 spurt, and led 33-26. The visitors rallied at that point, and tied the contest at 35 apiece, setting up the usual nip and tuck battle down to the end that has become such a familiar part of Princeton

Carril Bests van Breda Kolff. A week ago Tuesday, Carril faced his longtime friend and Princeton's former coach, Butch van Breda Kolff, in a meeting between the Tigers and Lafayette. The Leopards had won a year ago, but this time the Orange and Black gained a small measure of revenge with a 62-49 triumph. A lion's share of the credit for the victory goes to center Alan Williams, who poured in a career-high 27 points on superb

Cason Replaces Panfile

In a move that should strengthen the football program overall, Craig Cason has been appointed head coach of freshman football at Princeton University.

Cason, who was Ron Rogerson's defensive tackle coach on the varsity last season, succeeds Ned Panfile, who resigned after five years as freshman coach.

During his tenure, Panfile had to halance his coaching duties with a fulltime job as a high school vice-principal in Manville.

In announcing Cason's appointment, Rogerson com-mented, "The value and importance of having a fulltime staff member leading the freshman team is extremely significant."

A 1982 graduate of Howard University, Cason served as an assistant offensive line coach under Rogerson at the University of Maine during the 1982 and '83 seasons. He moved on to Dartmouth in 1984, and came here a year later when Rogerson tonk over.

Princeton was led again by its top two scorers, Tomi Morton and Tracy Hemingway. Morton pumped in 24 points to lead all scorers while Hemingway added 12.

Earlier in the week, McCorristin was twice as good as the Little Tigers as it placed four players in double figures for an easy 67-31 win - its sixth in seven games. The Iron Mikes led 39-19 at halftime.

Morton and Hemingway combined for 23 PHs points and Kelly Tahaney added five more. Dorothy Mayer was the top player for the victors with 12 points and nine rebounds.

Coach Joyce Jones' Little Tigers will next host Hightstown Friday at 8 and will oppose powerful Trenton High Tuesday afternoon in Trenton.

Barbara Sue White, viola, has turned string quartet playing into a paying proposition. Gathering up talented University students and others who are also eager to make a little money out of their musicmaking, she books her Princeton String Quartet "for joyous occasions" like wedding receptions.

Might Have Been Professional. Some of Princeton's violinists/viola players were headed toward careers as professional musicians before they made a career switch. As a teenager, Curt Carlson played in the violin section of of the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra. He found it to be not as positive an experience as he had enjoyed as concert master of the youth orchestra and other groups in which he played, partly, he says, "because you couldn't hear what you or others were playing and it was a job, in which you had to learn a great deal of music very quickly.'

He believes he made a "fortuitous choice" to become a scientist instead and says he "enjoys immensely" playing chamber music as a part-time amateur. "There is something wonderful about playing with four or five people on string in-struments," he says, "a magical thing that you can't replicate elsewhere.

Playing chamber music has its social element. "Chamber music players are always interested in meeting others,' notes Anne Florey. "Other people will look at a piece of music differently, and that is inexquisite that sharing it is a joy in itself.

"It's particularly fun if there are foreigners present, who capture its first Valley Division can't speak the language well but can play an instrument." Musicians grade themselves as to ability and allow a star to be put beside their name if they are offering to have the visitor stay in their home as well.

There is no limit to age, Mrs. Florey points out. Old and young alike are equally welcome, and age tends to be forgotten in the shared passion of making music. Between quartets, the talk will turn to sharing information about inglued or bows re-haired.

And there are enough musical masterpieces, Curt Carlson believes, for a lifetime

"We've got to win both these games as best we can to stay in contention," said Trotman.

Trenton Here Tuesday. Tuesday evening at 8 PHS will host powerful Trenton High, which joined the Colonial Valley Conference this season. The Tornadoes were supposed to laugh their way past CVC opponents but it hasn't happened that way. Not yet at least. The oncebeaten Tornadoes have had to struggle for their league wins.

"I think they can be beaten. They're not unbeatable," Trotman maintained.

Although it has been a number of years since PHS has played Trenton in a regular season game, the Blue and White faced THS last year in the finals of the Mercer County Tournament. After upsetting both Lawrenceville and Peddie in the first two rounds to advance to the finals, a tired Little Tiger team was blown away by Trenton, 99-57, in the champ-ionship game. "I kind of feel we owe them something," smiled Trotman.

The next day, PHS will oppose a powerful Burlington Township quintet on the road. Trenton and Burlington backto-back: that is excruciating scheduling.

Princeton is unique, David Southgate thinks, in the number and quality of its amateur musicians, whom he enjoys for their "enthusiasm and personal pleasantness." Mr. Carlson puts it differently. There is more string quartet old, and where to have cracks playing here, as well as more has "more over-educated people who have a propensity for solitary hard work — which suits both activities."

The Pirates seemed to have Chamber Music Let's Put It Behind Us caged the Little Tigers when Says Marv of 50-49 Loss they opened up a 48-37 lead with 6:30 left to play in the game. In the spurt, Pat McKellar hit a jumper, Rob Bosley scored his only two baskets of the game, Marv Trotman Jr. dunked the ball and Peter Paris tallied from the top of the key.

Midway in the PHS run, Trotman Sr. was hit with a two-shot technical foul when he protested - too much - a blocked shot foul called on Tim Rumer. The Pirates, however, failed to take advantage as Jay Thompson and Tom Hurst missed all four attempts.

As the game wound down amid the pandemonium and mounting pressure, WW finally broke its scoring drought when Hurst converted two foul shots with 2:12 left to play.

Princeton got one last chance when Royal missed the 1-and-l and Bosley grabbed the rebound. Bosley tossed to Trot-man whose jumper at the buzzer bounced off the rim.

WW coach Rolla Warner summed up the emotion-filled game when he observed, "This is the kind of game you have to win if you're going to be a championship team. A game like this, if you lose, it could have a devastating effect."

Tom Hurst of WW led all scorers with 20 points, while Royal finished with 14 and Jay Thompson had 10.
